The Commonwealth War Graves Commission lists Private Allan Barratt, 6462, as being 21 years old & served with 6th Battalion Australian Infantry. He was the son of William Edward & Annie Mary Barratt of Tourella St, Clunes, Victoria. Born at Allendale, New South Wales*. (A letter from Base Records to Mrs A. Barratt dated 20th April, 1932 states "It is noted from the correction to the proof slip entry that the deceased's birthplace has inadvertently been shown as Allendale – "New South Wales", and it is regretted that it will not be practicable to similarly amend the Register entry at this late juncture as the printed copies have already been prepared for publication."

Information from the Roll of Honour (which was completed by the Soldier's relatives after his death) to the question "Was he connected with any other Member of the AIF who died or who distinguished himself" Annie Barratt – mother of late Pte Allan Barratt replied –

"Cousin Sergeant J. S. Mounsey – D.C.M.

Cousins Pte Reg Mounsey (1358 died 9 May 1915 Gallipoli) & Pte Walter Mounsey (1680 died 23 Aug 1915 Egypt) who were killed."

(35 pages of Pte Allan Barratt's Service records are available for On Line viewing at National Archives of Australia website).

DEAD - Pte A. Barratt

(The Register, Adelaide, Tuesday 16 January 1917)

Commonwealth War Graves Commission Headstones

The Defence Department, in 1920/21, contacted the next of kin of the deceased World War 1 soldiers to see if they wanted to include a personal inscription on the permanent headstone at Durrington War Graves Cemetery. Space was reserved for 66 letters only (with the space between any two words to be counted as an additional letter) & the rate per letter was around 3 ½ d (subject to fluctuation).

The expense in connection for the erection of permanent headstones over the graves of fallen soldiers was borne by the Australian Government.

(Information obtained from letters sent to next of kin in 1921)

Pte A. Barratt does have a personal inscription on his headstone.
